Forecast For Northeast England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Wednesday 09 Jun 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Largely settled, isolated showers possible Wednesday and Thursday.

Today:
Probably a warmer but rather cloudy day on the whole. Most areas should stay dry throughout, although there is a chance of isolated showers developing later. Becoming breezier, especially over western hills where the odd spot of rain is possible. Maximum temperature 24 deg C (75 deg F).

Tonight:
Any late showers will die out but cloud will generally thicken with rain over the hills becoming more persistent in places, staying largely dry further east, with clear spells later. Minimum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Thursday:
Cloudy in the west with patchy mainly light rain over the hills at times. Brighter further east with sunny spells, as well as perhaps an isolated shower. Maximum temperature 24 deg C (75 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Mainly fine with long sunny spells through this period. Temperatures may rise a little further as winds ease. Overnight mist and fog patches possible.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.